Dear Mrs.Kaçmaz,

This is a full-block letter; every line of the letter begins at the left margin. Although using full-block style saves time in typing, the letterhead needs to be planned for it. Otherwise it might end up with a letter that does not have a balanced appearance. For example, a letterhead with printing on the left side of the page would present an awkward appearance if used with full-block style. A full-block letter cannot be double spaced.

If several persons are to receive carbon copies, their names are listed after the carbon-copy notation. They are listed either by rank or in alphabetical order.

Yours very truly,

Robert T. Walker
